

UNIVERSITY OF OSLO

To The Faculties of Medicine in the Nordic Countries

Date: 19.11.2025

Your ref.:

Our ref.: 2025/115571 JULIANGR

Announcement - The Anders Jahre Prize for Medical Research 2026

Since 1960 the University of Oslo has awarded the Anders Jahre Prize for Medical Research. The Prize is awarded for outstanding scientific activity or results within the medical sciences in the Nordic countries. It is an incentive for further research. Since 1965, the prize has been supplemented by a prize to young investigators under the age of 40.

We are now inviting the medical faculties at the Nordic universities to nominate their candidates.

To obtain information about possible candidates for the prize, The University of Oslo depends on input from the medical faculties at Nordic universities. We therefore request the assistance of your faculty to distribute this invitation. Please find enclosed a letter of invitation to nominate candidates that we ask you to distribute to the professors of your faculty.

As stated in the letter of invitation, only serving professors of medicine have the right to nominate candidates. Nominations should be in pdf format and not exceed 3 MB in size.

Please submit your nominations through our online form:

<https://nettskjema.no/a/530239#/>. Questions can be addressed to the secretary of the prize committee, Ingunn Rode Grorud (i.r.grorud@medisin.uio.no).

Nominations must be received before February 1, 2026

Questions can be addressed to the chair of the prize committee, Professor Ludvig M. Sollid (l.m.sollid@medisin.uio.no).

Further information can be found on

<https://www.uio.no/english/about/facts/awards/anders-jahre/about-the-award/>. The board of the University of Oslo has decided that proposals shall be kept strictly confidential.

UNIVERSITY OF OSLO

Sincerely yours

Hanne Flinstad Harbo

Dean

Hanna Ekeli

Faculty director

The document is electronically approved and has no signatures.

Copy to:

Ludvig Magne Sollid
Ingunn Rode Grorud

Officer in charge:

Julianne Sørflaten Grovehead